VOLUME XI, NUMBER 123. LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1914. PRICE TWO CENTS

JOHN J. BLAINE IS DRAFTED TO RUN AS NON-PARTISAN

Boscobel Man, Former State Senator, to Make Progressive Gubernatorial Campaign

ENDORSED BY ALL OF THE LEADERS

Democrats, Republican and Moosers Agree to Support Him; Work of Organization to Start Soon

DECISION FOLLOWS CONFERENCE

Announcement Is Made at Plankinton in Milwaukee; E. J. Kneen Took Large Part in Gathering

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6. —"Our expectation in regard to the independent candidacy of Mr. Blaine is that he will win," declared Richard Lloyd Jones, one of the progressives who developed the independent movement.

"There are 250,000 progressive voters in Wisconsin who do not want either Philipp or Karel as governor."

VIROQUA, Wis., Oct. 6. —"The nonpartisan movement will not affect my candidacy," said E. L. Philipp, republican nominee for governor, here today, commenting on the entrance of John J. Blaine into the gubernatorial race.

"As a republican I have no interest in the nonpartisan movement," he added. "Two years ago Mr. Blaine was the leader of the Wilson progressive-republican party in Wisconsin. I suppose it is the same party now."

John J. Blaine, of Boscobel, non-partisan candidate for governor.

A progressive platform, the essential plank of which will be emphatic enforcement of the pending constitutional amendments providing for the initiative, referendum and recall.

Above are the final steps taken by the meeting of progressive republicans, democrats and bull moose held at the Plankington House, Milwaukee, yesterday.

Mr. Blaine immediately made the following official announcement of his candidacy.

"I hereby announce myself as a non-partisan progressive candidate for the governorship. With two pronounced reactionary candidates before the people, I have deemed it my duty to give the people of Wisconsin an opportunity to vote for a progressive. I shall make a more extended announcement at once."

The conference accompanied Mr. Blaine's announcement with the following statement of the result of its deliberations:

In recognition of the general demand throughout the state for an independent candidate for governor, numerous candidates were suggested. Of these the most prominently mentioned and the most available was Senator John J. Blaine of Boscobel.

At the conference of independent progressives in session at the Plankinton House, the candidacy of Senator Blaine was indorsed.

Those present at the conference pledged themselves to assist him in every way in carrying on a successful campaign.

As this conference included friends of both candidates for the United States senate and other state and county officers on all tickets, it was decided to confine this campaign to the one proposition of working for and doing everything possible to elect a progressive governor and to give the voters of all progressive parties a chance to vote for a candidate for governor about whom there can be no question as to where he stands.

"Both Karel and Philipp have declared their opposition to trusting the people with the powers of self government represented in the initiative, referendum and recall," said E. J. Kneen. "Should these amendments be defeated they could not be passed within eight years. We believe the people of Wisconsin are qualified to handle these influences and checks on legislation and candidates and our candidate represents our idea of giving the people control

Will La Crosse Women Buy Cotton To Aid 2,000,000 Sufferers?

"Cotton Week" in La Crosse will be from October 5 to 9, inclusive. The call, issued by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, has been promulgated by Mrs. W. R. Finch, president, on behalf of the Twentieth Century club.

The plan is to relieve the suffering due to stagnation in the cotton industry resulting from the war's vast reduction in the market, by buying best American-made cotton goods for future as well as present uses.

Mrs. Pennybacker's appeal is as follows:

"Want and suffering threaten our land from the two million workers thrown out of employment. At this moment all those who depend upon the cotton crop—the planter, the broker, the manufacturer, the wholesaler, the retailer, are in dire straits. We women can help this situation. We must have cotton goods sooner or later in our homes. Let us, every one of us, go forth from Monday, October 5 to Friday, October 9, and buy as generously as we can afford, cotton material made in the United States. We should go a step further. During all the winter shopping it is our duty to ask always for goods MADE IN AMERICA, insisting that the quality of these goods be of the best, thus spurring our own artists and workmen to their highest creative power and their best craftsmanship. Never have we had such an opportunity to show the world that we can and will make any sacrifice to save our country from ruined plantations, silent spindles, closed factories and starving workmen.

MRS. PERCY V. PENNYBACKER"

ANTWERP BEGS ALLIES TO RAISE THE SIEGE

PROPOSE WAR TAX ON CHEWING GUM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Constantly moving jaws will be a sign that the chewer is aiding the government's war tax problem if an amendment of the war tax bill, adopted by the democrats of the senate finance committee at a meeting just prior to the caucus today, is finally accepted by congress. The committee added a section to the bill, imposing a tax of four cents on each dollar box of chewing gum.

The committee also resurrected the Spanish war tax on patent medicines from 1-8 of a cent on selling prices up to five cents, to five-eighths on prices between 15 and 25 cents. On prices higher than that, it is proposed to tax 5-8 of a cent on each 25 cents. Taxes on perfumery, cosmetics, hair oil and dyes and dentifrices are imposed.

MADISON STUDENTS STORM CITY JAIL

Three Thousand in Riot to Rescue Four Comrades Arrested After Fight

FIRE DEPARTMENT USES HOSE

Students Cut It from the Hydrant and Slash It to Bits for Souvenirs

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6. — Three students and four town boys, arrested during a riot here last night, had their cases continued in municipal court today. All are out under $50 bond, charged with disorderly conduct. The town boys are to appear in court tomorrow morning, the students on the morning of October 13.

Riot Over City

Inflamed by an attack on four of their fellow students by gangsters here last night, 2,000 University of Wisconsin students mobilized on the lower campus and ran riot over the city. A night of unprecedented revelry came to a climax when 3,000 men stormed the city jail in an effort to secure the release of four students who were locked up on charges of disorderly conduct. A fusillade of bricks shattered windows in the police station.

Turn on Hose

Firemen attached a four inch hose and drenched the mob with a heavy stream. One lone freshman for ten minutes withstood the efforts of the firemen to dislodge him. The lad kept his feet until three students crept up and cut the hose off at the hydrant. It was cut into bits for souvenirs.

The police awoke President Van Hise of the university and not until he made a speech from the steps of the police station did the crowd disperse.

The students arrested were: Joe Friedberg, Milwaukee; S. L. Miller, Madison; W. Koch, Davenport, Ia.; R. Weaver, Dayton, Ohio. They pleaded not guilty.

FIND BODY IN RIVER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 6.—Local police today proceeded on a murder theory seeking to establish the identity of a woman whose body, weighted with a gunnysack filled with sand was discovered floating in the Mississippi river late yesterday. Examination today revealed there was no water in the lungs, indicating death was not due to drowning. The body was that of a woman apparently about 35 years old, with brown hair and dark eyes.

APPEAL BELIES OFFICIAL WORD

Tell People the Forts Are Holding Against Day and Night Bombardment of Enemy

ANTWERP, Oct. 6.—Only the military forces actively engaged in the defense of Antwerp are now permitted to go to the front. No persons are permitted to occupy the spires of the churches or the roofs of tall buildings. The bombardment of the southern and eastern chain of forts continues without interval day and night. Rumors are current that some of the forts have been badly damaged. But the war office declares that the resistance is well maintained. The official statement issued today, said:

Say Forts Hold

"The Germans continue their bombardment of the outer ring of forts. They have utterly failed to gain a foothold. In a series of sorties the garrison has inflicted great damage. The enemy has now abandoned all efforts to carry our positions by storm. Every single fort and redoubt is holding out."

Despite this optimistic declaration, however, it is known that urgent messages have been sent to the British and French general staffs asking that immediate steps be taken to raise the siege. It is felt that Belgium has sacrificed enough and that the allies can now spare enough fresh troops to undertake a flanking movement in force from the west coast, which would compel the Germans to evacuate Brussels and to lift the siege of Antwerp. There is the more reason, it is felt here, why this movement should be instituted because of the attitude of the Germans toward Brussels. They are apparently trying to find an excuse to destroy the Belgian capital and their acts of oppression are causing much friction with the inhabitants.

Residents Leave

Antwerp residents are leaving for Holland and England. All of the vessels leaving, including even the fishing boats, are carrying noncombatants to neutral territory.

SOCIETY TO MEET

The Ladies' Industrial society of the First Baptist church will be entertained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. A. J. Lewis, at her home at 1316 State street.

GERMAN SUCCESS ALARMS BRITISH

Much Worried Over Failure of Prophesied Victory Over Germans in Battle of Aisne

WAR OFFICE IS NON-COMMITTAL

Merely Declares that General Situation Remains Good; All Forces Now in Action

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The situation in France is causing great anxiety in non-military circles. The optimistic attitude of the war office during the latter part of last week aroused great expectations. It was said that the long drawn out battle of the Aisne was ending in complete victory. Now, with the knowledge that the Germans are themselves extending their lines there is fear that the government is withholding much of the actual truth concerning the situation.

War Office Silent

The war office has nothing to say other than to repeat that the general situation remains good. There are no details of the fate of the British troops on the firing line. Even the location of the various units is withheld. It is admitted that the entire British expeditionary forces, the Indian contingent included, are in action. But where they are is left entirely to the imagination.

Russians no Further

The same condition holds good in reference to the Belgian situation and in the theater of war in the near east. The Russians were reported as attempting to cross the Donajec river in Galicia in their advance against Cracow last Thursday. But to date no claim that they have actually succeeded in crossing has been made.

Antwerp is reported as still holding out but it is known that the Germans are subjecting their city to a tremendous bombardment and that unless help comes soon the city may fall.

INSURANCE MEN TO FIGHT AMENDMENTS

Fire Company Representatives Appoint Committee to Frame Up Means to Defeat Measure

At a meeting of local fire insurance agents yesterday afternoon a committee consisting of E. R. Burke, W. J. Hickish and E. D. Loomis was appointed to devise ways and means to defeat the proposed constitutional amendments under which the state of Wisconsin would be permitted to enter the insurance business.

According to J. L. Pettingill, local insurance man, who attended yesterday's meeting, every insurance man present yesterday registered as opposed to the amendments.

Similar action has been taken by fire insurance men elsewhere in the state, it being the contention that the states' entrance into the field would be to the detriment of agents and companies.

CHURCH THRONGED AT BARTL FUNERAL

Hundreds of Friends Gather at St. Joseph's Cathedral to Pay Respects to Pioneer Brewer

GUND'S CLOSE FOR SERVICES

Employes of Concern Attend in Body; Other Institutions Show Similar Respect to Deceased

With the impressive solemn requiem mass at St. Joseph's cathedral at 9 o'clock this morning, the last rites for Franz Bartl, aged founder of the Franz Bartl Brewing company, a pioneer concern of LaCrosse, were held.

Probably more persons attended Mr. Bartl's funeral than that of any representative La Crosse man in recent years.

The Gund Brewing company's brewing department closed, and many of the office and bottling force were given leave of absence to attend. Many men from the Monitor Brewing company attended, and in fact every brewery in La Crosse was represented by a large number of its employes.

A large body of the representative people of the city who were not directly connected with Mr. Bartl, but who knew him so well in life, packed the church.

Died Saturday

Mr. Bartl died at 7:30 Saturday night. Death came suddenly. He had been confined to his bed for a short time, when the aged man wanted to be around the house. Death resulted from diabetes. He had attained the age of seventy years.

Children surviving are Mrs. Charles Spettle, Joseph A. Bartl, Mrs. Henry N. Boehm and Edward Bartl, all of La Crosse.

Rev. Fr. Gerhart Sluyter using the impressive service of the Catholic church conducted the services.

Pallbearers

Active pall bearers were G. A. Keller, A. H. Schubert, Carl Noelke, Roman Stadtler, William Boese, Fred Siede, W. F. Wolfe and Mathew Newburg.

Honorary pall bearers were Julius Burkhart, Leonard Frey, Alois Kracklauer, L. Schilling, Egid Hackner, Carl Ahrens, Jacob Schall, Emil T. Mueller, Carl Michel, Henry Gund and J. L. Erickson.

Hundreds at Grave

Hundreds of persons followed the body of Mr. Bartl to the Catholic cemetery where interment took place. Short services were held at the grave.

REFUSE RATE ADVANCE

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 6.—The fifteen railroads operating in Missouri which asked the state public service commission to allow them to increase passenger rates from the statutory two cent fare to three cents a mile and freight rates from 25 to 275 per cent over existing rates, were today turned down by the commission.

GERMANS FORCING WAY WESTWARD ADMITS THE FRENCH WAR OFFICE

War Bulletins

ROME, Oct. 6. — The submarine which was taken from the private shipyard in Specia, where it was under construction for Russia by Lieutenant Bellica and which was reported to have disappeared, has put into the port of Bastio, Corsica. Its commander has made no explanation of his reasons for disappearing with the craft.

TOKIO, Oct. 6.—An official statement, telling of the taking of the German island of Jaluit, seat of government of the Marshal archipelago in the south Pacific explains that the "occupation was for military reasons and not for the permanent occupation."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Japan and Great Britain will use their fleets to keep the trade routes of the Pacific free from German ships, an official statement by the Japanese embassy this afternoon declared. The embassy also confirmed the report that the German bases in Marshall archipelago were destroyed.

BERLIN ASSERTS ARMY IS GOING AHEAD SLOWLY

Say They Have Occupied Former Positions of Allies on Western Front

BERLIN, Via The Hague, Oct. 6. —The official war bulletin issued today contained but few additional facts over yesterday's contribution.

"The offensive of the German troops on both wings of the battle line in France continues," it said, "and we are pushing forward slowly and in perfect order. We now occupy the former positions of the allies on the western front but the fighting continues with no let up. Under our overwhelming pressure on both wings we have compelled the enemy to take up less advantageous positions.

"In the eastern theater of war we continue our offensive unchecked. The general battle has not materialized, although there is constant skirmishing, much of it in force.

"Advices from Vienna say that Przemysl defies all efforts of the Russians to take it, and that the Russian forward movement in Galicia has been checked."

CLAUSE IN HIGHWAY ACT IS SET ASIDE

Supreme Court Holds that Town Cannot Be Forced by Individuals to Raise Road Funds

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6. —The decision of the supreme court in holding unconstitutional the force clause of the state highway law will prevent approximately $900,000 of highway construction which the highway commission had in contemplation for next year.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6. — The "Force clause" of the state highway law was set aside by the state supreme court this morning, but the arguments made against this clause were declared not to apply to the remainder of the law, which is upheld.

The "Force clause" was that section of the law which provided that when freeholders in any section contribute any sum of money for the construction or improvement of roads that the town, county and state contribute six times that amount for the roads in question.

Commission Upheld

Case No. 146 had a bearing on the workmen's compensation act. The commission's ruling that full death benefit should be paid when the victim was over 60 years of age, was upheld by the court.

No decision was rendered by the supreme court today in the friendly suit brought by Attorney General Walter C. Owen against John S. Donald, secretary of state, to test the constitutionality of the forest reserve law under which appropriations were made for re-forestration purposes.

BELIEVED TRYING FLANK MOVEMENT AGAINST ALLIES

French Statement Is Optimistic and Declares There Is Little Change in the Situation

MAY BE AFTER FRENCH RAILWAY

Cavalry Reported at Lille Where Line Runs Which Will Be Used to Relieve Antwerp

FRENCH ESCAPE DANGER ON LEFT

Turn Back Ferocious Attack at Lassigny; Say They Have Plenty of Fresh Troops

PARIS, Oct. 6.—That the Germans are moving westward was indicated in today's official three o'clock statement, which announced that German cavaly are now signalled in the vicinity of Lille. Fighting of the most desperate character continues, it is stated in the communique, with practically no real change in the general situation.

In the vicinity of Arras it is stated there has been very slight change while the fighting continues with increasing ferocity.

Between the Somme and the Oise the alternate advance and retirements continue as the pressure increases or decreases at the various points of the line.

The Germans are declared to have attempted an attack in force on the French line which is holding Lassigny, but failed to gain the advantage.

The French, it is declared, are making progress to the north of Soissons and in the region of Berry-au-Bac.

In Flank Move

The Germans are believed today to be attempting an encircling movement on their own hook. The official communique, telegraphed from Bordeaux, reports the presence of the German cavalry near Lille. It is believed here that this is merely a reconnoitering force, but inasmuch as the main line of the railway that will be used for the relief of Brussels and Antwerp passes through Lille it is possible that the Germans may have started a force to destroy this line. The general statement was on the whole, however, encouraging. The fierce fighting which has been in progress for nearly a week at Arras continues unchecked, but the Germans have failed to gain any substantial advantage. Between the Somme and the Oise rivers the engagements continue with alternate advances and retirements and with no indication that the decisive outcome is approaching. But the Germans have been repulsed in their attempt to break the French lines at Lassigny.

Endangered Left

Had this movement succeeded the extreme French left would have been in grave danger. The Germans, however, were unable to make any impression on the French position which had been heavily reinforced.

In general the military experts declare that there is no cause for alarm. It is to be expected that the Germans will endeavor to remain on the offensive as long as they can. But they are at the limit of their resources so far as men are concerned. This is proven by the large number of reserves and second line troops among the prisoners from the front. On the other hand the British and French lines are constantly being added to by fresh troops and there is still a large supply to draw on.

An explanation of the German success in holding their positions and in forcing the allies to give way at certain points came from a French colonel, who arrived here today wounded.

"No troops ever fought so wildly as the Germans are doing," he said. "They also have a trick that is new in warfare. They are combining artillery and cavalry for the first time. They have big high powered armored automobiles on which they have mounted huge guns. One of these guns travels with each cavalry detachment. Whoever heard of artillery and cavalry going together before?

"When the cavalry hits a hard French line it falls back and there is the great gun. It throws enormous shrapnel shells until it has cleared the path and then the German cavalry charge and infantry comes to their support. That's the trick that made the French soldiers fall back."

The colonel, who was originally

GERMANY CONFIDENT THAT TURKEY SOON WILL COME TO HER AID AGAINST ALLIES SAYS OFFICIAL WIRELESS TO THE U. S.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(Via Wireless Through Sayville, L. I., to The United Press.)—It is officially announced that the general war situation, so far as the Austrians and Germans is concerned, is of the most hopeful character.

Everywhere in Germany, surprise is being expressed over the wonderful activity of the German cruisers scattered abroad. It had been feared that they would prove easy victims to overwhelming force, but in every instance they have eluded their pursuers. The Germans are now astonished to learn through the French and British papers of the damage they are doing the enemies' shipping. The Goeben, Breslau, Emden, Karlsruhe, Leipzig, Scharnhorst, and Gneisenau are all active.

Turks Take Hand

Attempts of the entente powers to force the opening of the Dardanelles have failed. The Russian ambassador at Constantinople is reported to be furious on account of the embargo thus placed on Russia's grain export trade and her importation of arms. The increased Turkish navy is confidently expected here soon to sail against Russia in the Black Sea, while Turkish troops, it is believed here, will soon be attacking the English on account of England's suppression of the khedivial rights in Egypt.

An order of the day written by Gen. Von Hoehm, which was published today says that Fort Camp De Romains (near St. Miehel) was taken after a hard fight. Five French officers and more than 500 men were made prisoners, the remainder of the garrison perishing in the ruins.

It is also stated that the Russians were completely defeated near Suwualki and Augustowo on October 1 and 2. The Germans took 3,000 prisoners and captured eighteen cannons and many machine guns.

Civilians Suffer

Neutral correspondents behind the French front on the Marne estimate that the civilian population of 10,000,000 who were expelled from their homes are now in bitter distress.

The British methods of warfare have paralyzed American trade, according to extensive figures made public here. Germany buys from the United States $1,500,000,000 worth of goods annually and this is entirely cut off, by England's arbitrary methods in interfering with neutral commerce. The English press seems to be endeavoring to place the blame for the loss of America's trade on the kaiser, calling him the "war lord." As a matter of fact, America can thank British pirates for the entire injury to her trade. The only remedy for America, to preserve the greater part of her necessary commerce with Germany, is to adopt methods which will end the piratical ways of England.

The above wireless dispatch was sent out by the German governmental press bureau and represented the German viewpoint. It again claims the Goeben and Breslau, reported sold to Turkey, as German cruisers, and apparently takes the view that Turkey has at last decided to cast her fortunes with Germany and Austria.

The Doctor Ordered Some Furniture Made of the New Wood.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— Romance of the Mahogany Tree.

"KIDDIES, I have a romance for you tonight, a 'sure nuff' romance about a mahogany tree."

"How can trees have any of that stuff—romance, you call it—about 'em?" asked Jack skeptically.

"Why, the whole world and everything in it is just one great big romance if you can see it that way. A tree is just a tree if you never think of why it's a tree instead of being an elephant or a river or a mountain."

"Well, why is it a tree, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

Daddy laughed. "We can wonder about it all we please, but if we could tell we would know the great mystery of the universe."

"Hum!" said Jack and Evelyn in unison, their young brows wrinkled.

"Tell us the romance, daddy," they begged.

"Very well, kiddies," said daddy, and began:

"The precious mahogany tree is found only in dense primeval forests and never anywhere but in tropical climates.

"So the mahogany tree hunter must make up his mind to many privations Rocky, mountainous, volcanic soil produces the most beautifully marked wood.

"This monarch of the forest grows to an enormous height and size, and the vast spread of its branches is no less remarkable than the space of ground occupied by the roots.

"The earliest allusion to mahogany occurs in the diary of Cortez between 1521 and 1540. He and his men used it for shipbuilding, and it was upon the island of Santo Domingo, discovered in 1492 by Columbus, that the finest mahogany was found.

"The use of it for furniture and ornaments was quite by accident, so the story goes. A West Indian sea captain sent a few planks of the wood to his brother, Dr. Gibbons of London.

"The doctor was building a new house in Covent Garden and gave the wood to his carpenters to use. But they complained that the wood was too hard, so the planks were laid to one side.

"One day the doctor wanted a candle box, and when the cabinetmaker complained that the wood was too hard the good doctor had tools made especially for the cutting of that wood.

"The box was a wonderful success. It was so beautiful that the doctor ordered some furniture made of the new wood.

"Many of his aristocratic patients saw his new furniture and desired to have some like it, and thus began the devastation of the mahogany tree until now it is a very rare wood indeed, as the supply is practically exhausted."

Nothing on a Mule

"O, doctor, I have sent for you, certainly; still I must confess that I have not the slightest faith in modern medical science."

"Well," said the doctor, "that doesn't matter in the least. You see a mule has no faith in the veterinary surgeon, and yet he cures him all the same."—Sacred Heart Review.

CLAIMS STANDARD OIL DOMINATES

Dr. William H. Allen Quits Research Board Because of Rockefeller's "Bossism"

OTHERS TO FINANCE HIS WORK

Claims He Is Victim of Campaign of Falsehood; Is Now Making Survey of University

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6.—Dr. William Allen of New York, who since April has been making a survey of the University of Wisconsin, has sent his resignation to the New York bureau of municipal research. The two main reasons given for this action, according to Dr. Allen, are Mr. Rockefeller's domination, with its progeny of evasions, mis-statements and silence on matters which vitally affect the public and the changing of the New York bureau and its training school for public service from agencies working for public service into Rockefeller-ized agencies for so-called 'scientific study."

The letter of resignation, dated October 2, says the annual meeting of the trustees held today in New York ought not to re-elect trustees who have been party to disparaging and devitalizing both the bureau and the training school for public service. Dr. Allen asks for opportunity to organize around the bureau's old program and record a new board of trustees who believe that this is the time to emphasize and expand, and not to change and contract the municipal research which "the country knows and wants."

THE WIDOW FROM AFAR

By GRACE KERRIGAN

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When a farm passes to other hands it is an event of importance to farmers for five miles around. If the buyer is a stranger in the county it is more than an event. If the buyer is a widow who has come all the way from Kansas to buy a farm in Ohio, it is an event outranking a cyclone in which twenty barns are overturned.

Yes, James Sheldon had sold his farm.

He had sold it for cash down.

He had got his price for it.

Yes, he had sold it to a widow from Kansas.

Yes, she was going to farm it herself.

Yes, she thought she knew her business.

The Ingham County "Sun" gave these particulars, and it was a county paper to be depended on. It had never predicted the coming of the grasshopper or the tater bug but that the insects showed up on time. True, the "Sun", while on the subject, might have stated whether the Widow Darrow would get married again if she had a good chance, and whether she was homely or handsome, but it was silent on those points.

Farmer Sheldon moved out and the Widow Darrow moved in.

The day she moved in about fifty people passed the farmhouse. The object of each and every one was to catch sight of her, though every last one of them had seen widows by the dozen.

The farm adjoining on the west belonged to Joab Waycraft, a widower with one son. His name was Moses, and he had hinted around that he should marry soon after his majority, if he could find the right party. His father was not quite fifty yet, and though he had thrown out no hints he intended to double up again when chance came his way.

Of course the Sheldons had told the Waycrafts that they were going to sell, but they could tell nothing about the widow, as she had bought through an agent, and was not to arrive until a certain date. The evening previous to the date Mr. Waycraft carelesly remarked to his son: "So the widder arrives tomorrer."

"Yep," was theh reply.

"I wonder what time?"

"She'll be in Medina on the early train, and by the time she drives out here it will be 10 o'clock."

"You seem to know a hull lot about it, Moses."

"Ain't it my duty to keep track of the widders?"

"Don't be a fool!"

After this admonition there was silence for five minutes.

"She comes as a stranger and I s'pose I orter go over there and bid her welcome to our midst," the father said.

"Oh, there'll be at least a dozen there."

"Who said so?"

"I've heard 'em say so, and I shall be one of 'em."

"What in punk you goin' fur?"

"To take her by the hand and welcome her, of course. That's only manners. We don't want her to think we are a couple of heathens."

"Moses, I run this farm!"

"You do, dad."

"And this house!"

"Yep."

"And our manners!"

"Not disputed."

"It's for me, as head of the house, to go over there and welcome the widder as a naybur, and for you to finish hoeing that patch of corn."

"But you orter put a new handle in that hoe," protested Moses.

"Never you mind about me, but do as I tell you."

"I wanted to see her the first thing and warn her agin some of the old widowers around here who are half crazy to marry anything that comes along."

"Moses, do you mean me?"

"Of course not, dad. You are neither old nor would you marry again, even if a princess offered herself."

"Well, you had best be a little more careful of your words."

Nothing further was said that night nor until after breakfast next morning. Then the father observed: "I s'pose others will be there, and I had better wear my Sunday suit."

"For sure, dad. You'll probably have quite a talk with her. Will you mention me?"

"What for?"

"Why, tell her your son will call soon."

"You may not call for a year. Get the chores done up and then go for that corn."

Farmer Waycraft had an hour's work yet to do before he could leave the house. He had been to the village a couple of days before and purchased a bottle of hair dye. This must go on to his gray whiskers to knock five years off his age. There was an odor of bad eggs and sulphur, but the farmer stood it for the sake of results. When the job was finished and he surveyed himself in the glass he smiled and nodded.

"Moses will notice it, of course, but I'll tell him that I upset a bottle of ink on mp whiskers. If he says he don't believe it I'll turn to lick him, old as he is!"

The widow had arrived by the time the other farm was reached. She thanked everybody, but hadn't much time to talk. Farmer Waycraft was aware that she glanced at his whiskers with a smile, but whether of approval or not he couldn't exactly make out. He found her to be a brisk little woman of less than forty, and he did some pleasant thinking as he walked home. Moses was hoeing corn most furiously, and the father suspicioned something, but waited till evening to ask:

"Moses, did you go over to the widow's?"

"Why, I jest ran over to see if she got there safe."

"But I told you to keep away from there."

"Look here, dad, I'm not a kid. I'm twenty years old. I'm working for you as a hired man, but you mustn't try to boss me about outside things. If I can marry a nice widder with a nice farm I'm goin' to do it."

"But this one is ten or fifteen years older than you are."

"I have read that true love takes no account of years."

"I'm atellin' you agin, young man, to keep away from the widder's!" almost shouted the father. "I'm not goin' to see a son of mine make a fool of himself if I can help it."

"Thanks, dad, but what about them whiskers of yourn!"

"Moses, can't a father spill ink on his whiskers without bein' insulted about it! If he can't, then you had better draw your wages and dig out o' here!"

That was the beginning of a thing that lasted three months and caused much rancor. Moses refused to be convinced that young men of his age shouldn't have matrimonial designs against a widow even ninety years old, and the father kept his whiskers colored a jet black and put his best foot foremost. There was hardly an evening but that one or the other called, and by tacit consent they divided the evenings. One sat sulking at home with the other was absent, and when the absent one walked into the house he was greeted with:

"So you hung on until the widow had to kick you out!"

"On the contrary, she wanted to know what my great hurry was to get home."

"I'll bet she hoped you'd never come again!"

"Why, she asked why I didn't come oftener!"

Their habit had been to work together in the field—to sit and smoke and talk together—to take turns about cooking and to eat together, but all this was changed. Both went to Farmer Oxford at different times to ask a favor. When it was the father he said:

"I want you to talk to Moses. That boy is making a perfect dum fool of himself. He is in love with the Widder Darrow, and he thinks she is idiot 'nuff to take up with a boy of his age. Talk to him and make him understand what a ninny he is."

And when it was Moses he would say:

"You have noticed dad's whiskers, of course?

"Wall, yes, I've kinda noticed 'em."

"And smelt 'em?"

"Jest a whiff or two now and then."

"What d'ye 'spose he dyed 'em fur?"

"To make the Widder Darrow think he is ten years younger'n what he is! Talk to him and tell him what a fool he is. By George, but when an old man gets giddy what a circus he makes of himself! Talk to dad. Tell him to wash off that dye and go to reading his Bible and prepare for the grave!"

This state of affairs continued for weeks, and after a bit the Widow Darrow had knowledge of it. She had a vein of deviltry, and she helped it along in a way. She kept both father and son from talking love, but was charmingly friendly and time went on until the father said to himself one day:

"I am goin' right over there tonight and pop the question."

And, curious coincidence, Moses thought and said the same thing.

They dodged each other at the house and met at the widow's gate.

They glared at each other. They breathed hard. They breathed harder. They were about to clinch in deadly conflict when the widow came tripping down to say:

"When I left Kansas I was engaged to a nice man. He will be here tomorrow, and we are to be married the day after. You are both invited to the wedding."

"BLOOD WILL TELL"

The Heroes of the war.

"Blood will tell," is an axiom that in all the ages has never been gainsaid. Every man who does a brave, heroic act carries within his veins a quality of blood that urges and sustains him. No matter whether he inherits it from a long line of famous ancestors or from the sound and healthy constitution of his immediate parents, whose only distinction is honorable toil and a simple, virtuous life.

It matters little where or how you obtain it, but it matters all the world that by some means you possess good blood. Good blood is first, last and always the making of manly men and womanly women. It is the source of all courage, virtue and happiness.

A new man can be made out of one that's "used-up," bilious and dyspeptic. It's done by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It starts the torpid liver into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses, repairs, and strengthens the system, and restores health and vigor. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, and builds up flesh and strength. It's the only Blood and Liver Remedy that's guaranteed, in every case, to benefit or cure. If it doesn't do all that's claimed for it, the money is promptly refunded. But it keeps its promises—that's the reason it can be sold in this way.

You only pay for the good you get.

"Discovery" strengthens Weak Lungs, relieves Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, bound in cloth, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of wrapping and mailing only. Address Doctor Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

A SOUND POSITION

There is one thing the conference will unquestionably decide upon, and that is that every effort be made to put through the constitutional amendments. Aside from the home rule amednment, which has been endorsed by both platforms, the progressives of all parties feel it is most important the initiative, referendum and recall be put through now.

In the foregoing statement by Richard Lloyd Jones is presented the great, vital issue of this campaign. What matters it who is elected governor, if the people have the power to recall him for misfeasance? What matters it that legislators decline to pass a law the people want, provided the people can pass it themselves? What harm if a bourbon legislature pass an unjust law, when the people can repeal it themselves?

Every man who believes he is qualified for self government is bound to vote for these amendments which for the first time give him the power of self government.

FREAR—YES, AND RAY S. REID

The Washington Times contributes a thought of interest to Wisconsin when, noting that Senators Burton and Kenyon are getting the glory for defeating the "porker" bill, it says:

But the man who is entitled to first recognition for this fight on the pork grab is the Hon. James A. Frear of Wisconsin. He started it half a year ago in the house, making a speech every time he could get the floor. He made a contumelious nuisance of himself. He studied and investigated by night and he talked by day, telling the things that his studies had discovered. He compelled, at last, attention to the bill.

The house rules would not permit the sort of fight that has been made in the senate. But the fact remains that the Frear fight was the beginning of the whole campaign against the grab, and that what has been accomplished by a handful of earnest men in the upper house was only the completion of that which was begun by one man, single-handed, in the house.

We quite agree with the Times, as far as it goes. And back of Mr. Frear we see the fine Italian hand of Judge Ray S. Reid, who for years roamed through the halls of congress seeking a daring soul to take his studiously constructed indictment of rivers and harbors "pork" before the log-rolling legislators. In the beginning, anti-pork and Ray Reid were synonymous.

"A SCRAP OF PAPER

Reciting the fact that the first Harrison, Jackson, Taylor, Buchanan, Webster and Clay were past sixty when they sought the presidency, Collier's Weekly discounts the objection to Senator Lodge as a tentative republican candidate on the ground of his sixty-four years. It recalls that Jackson, the oldest of them all, was unquestionably the liveliest delegate, and adds:

Incidentally, Roosevelt will not be fifty-six until the twenty-seventh of this month. Our guess is that he will have much more "pep" left at eighty than Daniel Webster had at seventy, Roosevelt's habits being markedly better than Dan'l's with respect to some things which tend to burn up vitality. Those irreconcilables who are determined that Roosevelt shall never be president again may have a rather long siege ahead of them.

It is too bad that we seem doomed to get away from real issues and fight out the personal matter of whether we shall or shall not make a particular individual president. We are inclined to complain that Villa, in "darkest Mexico," is unreasonable in making an issue of war the question whether Carranza will keep his word about the latter's candidacy in future. But here, in "lightest America," we find a president's word that he will not again be a candidate amounts to less than the treaties that in Europe are contemptuously disregarded as "scraps of paper."

LA CROSSE BRAWN IN THE UNIVERSITY

Following the last University of Wisconsin commencement The Tribune published a review of the work of La Crosse students in the graduating class; it told a story of achievement by our young people, a record in which we take pride.

Just now football holds the boards. How many of us ever stopped to think to what an extent we have contributed to the brawn of the Badger eleven?

Captain "Tubby" Keeler, and Stavrum, stars, from La Crosse; Weimar, La Crosse, second eleven man likely to join the varsity during the season.

Wisconsin has approximately 2,340,000 people, of whom about 31,000, approximately one seventy-seventh, live in La Crosse. La Crosse furnishes three of the twenty-two men on the football teams, about one-seventh.

That is, La Crosse with one seventy-seventh of the population furnishes one-seventh of the football players and one-half of the football stars.

Who?

Who fight the battles of the king
And march where sabres loudly ring?
Of whom do war bards seldom sing?
The people.
Who sacrifice their lives and all
They may possess to heed the call
That crowns may rise and may not fall?
The people.

Who wade through blood with courage grim,
To satisfy a monarch's whim
And sing this monarch's battle hymn?
The people.
Who have no choice to profit by?
Who for content and peace may sigh,
But must march on to kill—to die?
The people.

Who through all time have been beset
By terror, death or vain regret,
Recalling deeds they would forget?
The people.
Who have fought battles, not their own,
To keep the king upon his throne?
Whose wrongs can no one e'er condone?
The people's.

Dire Destruction

John Henry was keeping company with Myrtle Marie, and when the father of the latter returned from the office one evening he was timidly approached by his pretty daughter.

"Papa," said the fair one, "did John Henry call on you this morning?"

"Yes," answered the parental one, "but I couldn't make out much of what he said."

"Couldn't make out what he said?" repeated Myrtle Marie wonderingly. "What do you mean?"

"As near as I could understand," explained papa, "he said he wanted to marry me; that you had enough money to support him and that we had always loved each other, so I told him to go home and write it out in plain English."—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

Early Breakfast

Senator Lorimer and Congressman Rainey of Illinois will never forget their trip down the Illinois and Mississippi rivers several years ago, when they sought to blaze the way for a deep waterway.

"The senator and I had many unique experiences on that trip," said Rainey. "We traveled in a twenty-six foot launch and our trip resulted in uniting forty-one organizations under 'dig 'er deep' banners.

"One night we were floating forty miles north of the Arkansas line when it dawned upon us that we ought to put up for the night. It was beastly dark, but we heard the barking of dogs and surmised we had struck a lumber camp.

"I jumped out and knocked all the bark off my shins getting over driftwood logs. I finally sighted a hut and begged a woman there to find lodging for two.

"'We'll pay twice the regular rates and even more, and all we ask is that you wake up early so we can be on our way,' I said. For a time the woman hesitated, but the proffers of double payment overcame her and she consented to let us stop.

"'What time can you have us up?' I asked.

"'Wal,' she replied, 'we uns down here have breakfast at 4, but if you gentlemen must get up early, I guess I can fix it for you.'"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Vital Question

A Chicago business man with many relatives, some of whom were well to do but grasping, recently sought the services of his lawyer to draw up his will. When, after much labor, the document was completed, his client asked:

"Have you fixed this thing as I wished it, tight and strong?"

"I have done my best," said the lawyer.

"Well," continued the client, "I want to ask you another thing—not professionally, however. As a friend, and man to man, who do you think stands the best chance of getting the property when I am gone?"—Harper's Magazine.

A True Gift for Fiction

In a New Brunswick village a town character who preferred emphasis to the verities was a witness in a petty trial involving an auger. He positively identified it as the property of one of the parties to the suit.

"But," asked the attorney for the other side, "do you swear that you know this auger?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you known it?" he continued.

"I have known that auger," said the witness impressively, "ever since it was a gimlet!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Forehanded

"I want three afternoons off a week and a fine letter of recommendation, and—"

"But we'll let the letter of recommendation wait until you leave, I—"

"Nope, I get the letter now. I've tried gettin' them when I leave and I've never been able to get a good one yet."—Houston Post.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

CHAPTER XIX.
Like Lovers.

On reaching Chickasha, Wilfred Compton telegraphed to Kansas City asking his brother if Lahoma was still at Mr. Gledware's house in the country. In the course of a few hours the reply came that she had already started home to Greer County, Texas. After reading the message, Wilfred haunted the station, not willing to let even the most unpromising freight train escape observation.

Everything that came down the track on this last reach of the railroad into Southwest Oklahoma, was crowded with people, cattle, household furniture, stores of hardware, groceries, dry goods—all that man requires for his physical well-being. The town itself was swarming with eager jostling throngs bound for many diverse points, and friends of a day shouted hearty good-bys, or exchanged good-natured badinage, as they separated to meet no more.

Men on horseback leading heavily laden pack-horses, covered wagons from which peeped women and children half-reclining upon bedding, their eyes filled with grave wonder at a world so unlike their homes in the East or North—pyramids of undressed lumber fastened somehow upon four wheels and surmounted in precarious fashion by sprawling men whose faces and garments suggested Broadway, New York, and Leadville, Colorado—Wilfred gazed upon the unending panorama. In those corded tents he saw the pioneer family already in possession of the new land; in the stacks of pine boards he beheld houses already sending up the smoke of peace and prosperity from their chimneys; and in the men and women who streamed by, their faces alight with hope, their bodies ready for the grapple with drought, flood, cyclone, famine, he saw the guaranty of a young and dominant state.

Strangers greeted one another with easy comradeship. Sometimes it was just, "Hello, neighbor!"—and if a warning were shouted across the street to one endangered by the current of swelling life, it might be—"Look out there, brother!" The sense of kinship tingled in the air, opening men's hearts and supplying aid to weaker brethren. Those who gathered along the track awaiting the arrival of the trains had already the air of old-timers, eager to extend the hospitality of a well-loved land.

In such a crowd Wilfred was standing when he first caught sight of Lahoma among those descending to the jostling platform. He had not known how she would look, and certainly she was much changed from the girl of fifteen, but he made his way to her side without the slightest hesitation.

"Lahoma!"

She turned sharply with a certain ease of movement suggesting fearless freedom. Her eyes looked straight into the young man's with penetrating keenness which instantly softened to pleasure. "Why! how glad I am to see you!" she cried, giving him her hand as they withdrew from the rush. "But how did you know me?"

"How did you know?" he returned, pleased and thrilled by her glowing brown hair, her eloquent eyes, her warm-tinted cheeks, her form, as erect as of yore, but not so thin—as pleased and thrilled as if all these belonged to him. "How did you know me?" he repeated, looking and looking, as if he would never be able to believe that she had turned out so much better than he had ever dreamed she would.

"Oh," said Lahoma, "when I looked into your face, I saw myself as a girl sitting under the cedar trees in the cove, with Brick and Bill."

"Just you three?" demanded Wilfred wistfully—also smilingly.

"Oho!" exclaimed Lahoma, showing her perfect little teeth as if about to bite, in a way that filled him with fearful joy, "and so they showed you that letter!"

"Just you three?" repeated Wilfred. "Just room enough in the cove for you—and Brick—and Bill?"

"Listen to me, Wilfred, and I will do the talking."

"Well?"

She lowered her voice to a whisper—"Lean your head closer."

Wilfred put down his head. "Is this close enough?" he whispered, feeling exalted. Men, women and children circled about them; the air vibrated with the shock of trunks and mail bags hurled upon the platform.

"No," said Lahoma, rising on tiptoe.

Wilfred took off his hat and got under hers.

She whispered in his ear, "Red Kimball came on this train—there he is—he hasn't seen me, yet—was in another coach."

"Well? Go on talking, Lahoma—I'd get closer if I could."

"S-h-h! He knows me, for he was a porter in our hotel. When he sees us he'll know I've come home to warn Brick. S-h-h! Then he'll try to keep me from doing it. Look—some of his gang are speaking to him—they've been waiting here to meet him—they'll go with him, I expect. We'll all be in the stage-coach together."

"What do you want me to do to 'em, Lahoma?"

"I want you to pretend that you don't know me—and they mustn't find out your name is Compton, or they'll think Mr. Edgerton got word to you to join me here. Be a stranger till we're safe in the cove."

"All right. Good-by—but suppose I hadn't come?"

"Oh, I could have done without you," said Lahoma. "Or I think I could."

"You could never have done without me!" Wilfred declared decidedly.

"I can right now—" She drew away. "I'll get into the stage;—don't follow too soon."

There were three stage-coaches drawn up at a short distance from the platform, and Lahoma went swiftly to the one bound for her part of the country. She was the first to enter; she was seated quietly in a corner when the two long seats that faced each other began filling up. The last to come were four men: one, tall, slender, red-faced and red-haired, two others of dark and lowering faces, who looked upon the former as their leader, and the last, Wilfred Compton, who had unobtrusively joined himself to this remnant of Red Kimball's gang.

The stage, which was built after the manner of the old-fashioned omnibus, afforded no opportunity of moving to and fro in the selection of seats, hence, when Red Kimball discovered Lahoma's identity--the exact moment of the discovery was marked by his violent start—she was safeguarded from his approach by her proximity to a very large woman flanked by a thin spinster. These were two sisters, going to the evening's station where the coach would stop for supper, and Lahoma discussed with them their plans and hopes with bright cheerfulness and ready friendship.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania has decided that the amount of damage collectable on growing timbet set on fire through negligence is not only the value of the wood destroyed, but also the injury to the property as a whole through the destruction of the young growth.

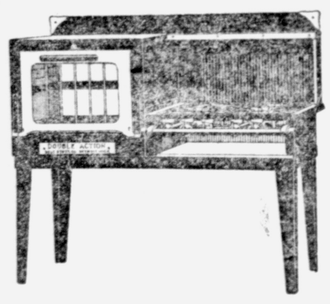
Demonstration of Double Action Gas Ranges, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY of THIS WEEK



The "Best" Range is called Double Action because it uses the heat twice.

You can readily understand how it would take more fuel to heat your home if you had the windows open. By doing away with the holes in the top of the oven, which quickly carry away the heat in most stoves, we force the heat back downward and use it twice. This principle which is used in no other stove, explains why the "Visible Double Action" burns 33 1-3 to 50 per cent less gas.

The Visible Double Action Gas Range has the only absolutely fireproof and sanitary Broiling Pan made.

If you have ever tried to broil a steak with any other broiling pan you know how difficult it is to heat the meat hot enough to broil without setting the grease in the pan on fire. This difficulty is all eliminated with this improved broiling pan. As fast as the heat drives the fat out of the meat it runs through the hole at the bottom of this funnel-shaped pan into a dish below—out of the reach of the fire.

Aluminum Tea Kettles FREE with each range sold in this sale.

Just Push a Button to Light This Stove—No Matches Needed

You'll find this the handiest arrangement you ever used—and it is absolutely reliable. It works every time. There are no complicated parts to get out of order. Simply turn on your burner and press the button. This self-lighter does away with having a lot of burnt matches around in the way. Don't fail to see this exclusive feature at the demonstration.

BATAVIAN BANK BUYS A BALE OF COTTON TO HELP THE PLANLERS

To help planters of the south, the Batavian Bank of La Crosse has entered into the "Buy a Bale of Cotton" scheme that originated in Washington with the beautiful daughter of Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives.

The local institution has sent a check for $50 into the southland and the cotton is expected here in a few days.

"We will place it on exhibition," said Vice President E. M. Wing of the Batavian bank, today, "and hope by so doing to influence other local concerns to aid the southern planters."

The European war has practically strangled the cotton market and the result is that southern planters have no place to dispose of their product.

The "Buy a Bale of Cotton" movement is gaining headway throughout the United States and it is considered probable that this country will take the entire output.

SOUTHERN BANKS PLAN COTTON POOL

Scheme Put Up to McAdoo Today to Advance Money on Warehouse Receipts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Formation by southern banks of a "cotton pool" with resources of from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 to take care care of the cotton crop deprived by the war of European market, was a solution of the cotton problem before the treasury department today. Its adoption and approval by Secretary McAdoo was deemed certain.

Assessments are to be made upon each bank to complete the "cotton pool," similar to the plan of operation of the exporters' "gold pool," now nearly completed under supervision of the federal reserve board.

Loans from the "pool" will be made to cotton producers and brokers on a basis of six or seven cents a pound, based upon cotton warehouse receipts.

Youthful, Beautiful Skin Easy to Have

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, the natural thing is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercolized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-beaten film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand new complexion, a new skin. The exquisitely beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired, comes so easily, without harm or discomfort, there's no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will not fail in any case.

To quickly remove wrinkles, signs of care and age, bathe the face occasionally in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. The results will surprise you.

RUSSIAN RITUAL EMPLOYED HERE

Syrian Bishop Conducts Mass; Two Children from Colony Are Baptized

A service, unique in its character, and new to many of the members of St. Elias' Syrian Orthodox church, was conducted Sunday morning by Bishop Raphael Hawaweeny of Brooklyn, N. Y., head of the Syrian Orthodox church in this country.

Mass was celebrated after the ritual of the Russian church, under the archbishopic of which is the Syrian Orthodox church in this country. The church was decorated in red in honor of the bishop.

Assisting Bishop Hawaweeny in the services were Deacon Emmanuel Abo-hatab of Brooklyn and Rev. Antonius Bohlim Farah of Michigan City, Ind.

The office of baptism was also carried out at the services, immediately following mass. Eleanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sady, 501 St. Cloud street, and Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. George, 507 St. Cloud street, receiving their first rites.

Bishop Hawaweeny expects to leave Friday for his home in Brooklyn.

WAR NOT TO HURT PILSENER SUPPLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—The war can go on now indefinitely, at least so far as the men who drink Pilsener care. But they need worry no longer.

The beer they have been drinking really came from Hoboken, St. Louis or maybe Milwaukee. At least so one of the master brewers attending a convention here said today.

When asked if the war was going to cut off the supply of Pilsener, he grinned and said he "guessed not, as it is all made in America, anyway."

WILD ALARM CLEARS OUT THE FRESHMEN

Freshmen in the high school got out of the building in a hurry yesterday afternoon, just at the close of the session, when all the gongs began to ring, and clamored loudly for some time. The freshmen thought it was either a fire or a fire drill, and when the teachers began to lock up their desks hurriedly, they stood not upon the order of their going, but went at once. The teachers hurried, too, but not out of the building. They recognized the alarum as a call to a faculty meeting in Principal McCormick's office.

"KEN" DICKENS JOINS NORMALITES

High School Speed Boys to Hold Down the Backfield Job for Peds

The normal school football stock took a decided jump when Kenneth "Speed" Dickens enrolled at the office yesterday. Dickens is a high school star, having played four years. He will undoubtedly play on the normal team, and hold a position in the backfield. He reported for light practice but will get into the game in full force soon in preparation for Saturday's game with St. Mary's at Winona.

The first and second teams scrimmaged for three-quarters of an hour Monday afternoon, with the first team able to score at will. Coach Carter declares that he will clean up something big this year. The first game will be played Saturday at Winona and Carter will put the team through heavy drill to meet the fast Winona aggregation.

REPORT CHOLERA RIFE IN HUNGARY

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Venice correspondent of the Evening News wires that cholera is spreading throughout Hungary to such an extent that officials are greatly alarmed. The schools in Budapest have all been closed because of the danger of infection. The correspondent adds that, although it is officially stated the disease was brought by Russians from the battle front and that civilians have not been affected, severe punishments are being inflicted on newspapers that carry reports of the spreading of the disease or defeats of the Austrian troops. Austrian subjects have been sentenced to three years' imprisonment for careless remarks about the military situation, while subjects of other nations have been dealt with in even more severe measure.

Ambassador Dumda, the Austrian representative in the United States, has made a public statement denying specifically that cholera is epidemic in Hungary.

KILL EVERYTHING AND GET SUPPORT

Taxpayers' League Willing to Line Up for Anyone Who Will Agree to Kill Commissions

VOLATE CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT

Fail to File Expense Accounts but Still Have Finger in State Political Situation

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6.—Legislative and candidates for state offices who secure the endorsement of the Home Rule and Taxpayers' league must pledge themselves for the abolition of the industrial commission, the curtailment of the powers of the railroad commission and the repeal of the primary election law. This program was disclosed in a letter to candidates today signed by Charles E. Pierce of Janesville, president of the league. The stationery on which it is printed states that T. C. Richmond of this city is vice president of the organization.

Nine specific questions are submitted to the candidates. The document is so framed as to secure a referendum vote from the candidates and a statement of how they stand on legislative matters. Among the things demanded by the league are:

The abolition of the tax commission, the highway commission, the board of public affairs, the legislative reference bureau and "many more of those special and state agencies, for the reason that their services are not necessary to the proper management of state affairs."

It declares that there is no excuse for an increase of taxation from about "$4,000,000 to over $14,000,000 a year over the past decade."

It believes that many of the commissions and boards have been vested with power which practically destroys local self-government, and "the people have been wrongly deprived of the right and privilege of controlling, managing and directing their own business affairs."

The league demands the repeal of the primary election law "and the restoration to the people of the right to meet in conventions to discuss public policy and to adopt party platforms and to nominate candidates for office."

The league demands the rejection of amendments proposed to the constitution.

It asks for stricter economy at the University of Wisconsin and for the abolition of the boards of university and normal school regents and the establishment of one small board to perform the duties of both.

Fight Game Laws

The league is pledged to the repeal of the law providing for the appointment of a state game warden and deputies and declares that these duties should be performed by sheriffs, constables and other police officers of the state at little or no expense. Investigation of the records of the secretary of state shows the alleged "League" is violating the corrupt practices act in that it has failed to file expense accounts.

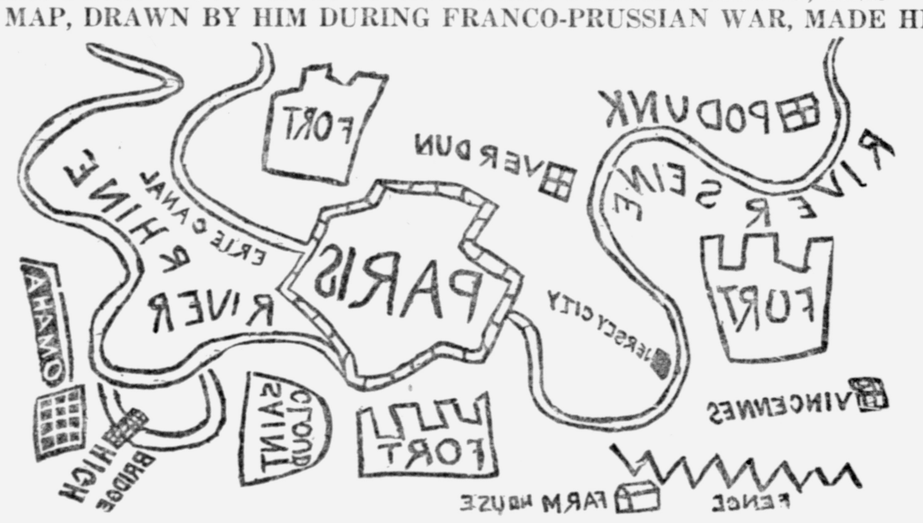
MARK TWAIN'S OWN IDEA OF EUROPEAN FORTIFICATIONS; THIS MAP, DRAWN BY HIM DURING FRANCO-PRUSSIAN WAR, MADE HIT



This map is reproduced from the Buffalo Express of Saturday, September 17, 1870. Mark Twain was then the editor, and the map was drawn by him. The German army was approaching Paris.

In 1870, when the German army was approaching Paris, Mark Twain was editor of the Buffalo Express. The public was crazy for war maps showing the location of the fortifications of Paris. Mark saw an opportunity to have a little fun and of course he didn't let it slip. He drew a war map of Paris, which he published in the Express on Saturday, September 17, 1870. This cut is a reproduction of his map, which raised a world laugh at the time. He wrote a story that ran with it, as follows:

TO THE READER

The above map explains itself.

The idea of this map is not original with me, but is borrowed from the Tribune and the other great metropolitan journals.

I claim no other merit for this production (if I may so call it) than that it is accurate. The main blemish of the city-paper maps of which it is an imitation, is, that in them more attention seems paid to artistic picturesqueness than geographical reliability.

Inasmuch as this is the first time I ever tried to draft and engrave a map, or attempt anything in the line of art at all, the commendations the work has received and the admiration it has excited among the people, have been very grateful to my feelings. And it is touching to reflect that by far the most enthusiastic of these praises have come from people who know nothing at all about art.

By an unimportant oversight I have engraved the map so that it reads wrong-end first, except to left-handed people. I forgot that in order to make it right in print it should be drawn and engraved upside down. However, let the student who desires to contemplate the map stand on his head or hold it before her looking glass. That will bring it right.

The reader will comprehend at a glance that that piece of river with the "High Bridge" over it got left out to one side by reason of a slip of the engraving tool, which rendered it necessary to change the entire course of the River Rhine or else spoil the map. After having spent two days in digging and gouging at the map, I would have changed the course of the Atlantic ocean before I would have lost so much work.

I never had so much trouble with anything in my life as I did with this map. I had heaps of little fortifications scattered all around Paris, at first, but every now and then my instruments would slip and fetch away whole miles of batteries and leave the vicinity as clean as if the Prussians had been there.

The reader will find it well to frame this map for future reference, so that it may aid in extending popular intelligence and dispelling the widespread ignorance of the day.

OFFICIAL COMMENDATIONS

It is the only map of the kind I ever saw.—U. S. Grant.

It places the situation in an entirely new light.—Bismarck.

I cannot look at it without shedding tears.—Brigham Young.

It is very nice, large print.—Napoleon.

My wife was for years afflicted with freckles, and though everything was done for her relief that could be done, all was in vain. But, sir, since her first glance at your map, they have entirely left her. She has nothing but convulsions now.—J. Smith.

If I had this may I could have gone out of Metz without any trouble.—Bazaine.

I have seen a great many maps in my time, but none that this one reminds me of.—Trochu.

It is but fair to say that in some respects it is a truly remarkable map.—W. T. Sherman.

I said to my son Frederick William, "If you could only make a map like that, I would be perfectly willing to see you die—even anxious."—William III.

Coffee Hurt You?

No need to get mad now, tear up the paper, or shout "nonsense, good coffee never hurt anyone."

You know better than that, for you can point out all around you folks who are the worse for coffee's slugging.

Think over a few coffee-drinking friends and casually enquire if they are entirely and perfectly well and just how coffee treats them.

If it hurts others isn't it just possible—?

Catch the drift, don't you?

In fact after having studied the matter a bit it will become plain that if you are a coffee-drinker the chances are that some form of incipient or perhaps fixed organic disease due to coffee has set in, headache, biliousness, constipation, nervousness, sleeplessness, heart flutter or others of the well-proven coffee ills. One can refuse to look the thing squarely in the face and peg along with the coffee.

Some day Nature will haul him up short.

It's a Poor Bargain

to swap health and a clear, business-like head for a few cups of coffee each day.

Every coffee toper tries to wriggle round and charge his aches and ills to weather, overwork, too much or too little food, this, that or the other thing, but how he hates to admit that the real enemy is his Master, coffee.

A Sure Personal Test

will locate the exact cause of your steady destruction of health, if that cause be coffee. It's worth knowing the plain, sober fact before organic heart trouble or other disease sets in, which perhaps cannot be cured.

The test is pleasant, accurate and satisfying—

Quit coffee absolutely for ten days and in its place use POSTUM.

Postum now comes in two forms. Regular Postum must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form made in the cup instantly, with hot water. Both kinds of this famous food-drink have the color and flavour very much like the high grades of Old Gov't Java.

If in a few days you begin to sleep soundly at night, digest your food better, stomach and bowels show signs of recovery, or the old feeling of weakness of the heart leaves, or head works clearer, (the ails of coffee drugging are multitudinous) the facts will be before you, and

You Have the Answer—

POSTUM

"Whys" of European War Moves Explained By Military Expert

BY J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—11 A. M.—The ladder which the allies are climbing toward Belgium is being rather violently shaken at the base, as French advance brigades are beginning to reach the ladder's topmost rungs. Von Kluck's renewed offensive along the Oise, which has forced the allies to give ground, has its chief significance as an attempt to frighten the allies into backing down the ladder.

Von Kluck's smart success is indicative of the danger that faces the allies if they weaken the rest of their western front in order to throw an overwhelming force against the Belgian boundary. The absence of further news concerning the movement of the allies about Arras suggests Von Kluck has succeeded in halting the Anglo-French northern movement by suddenly and unexpectedly concentrating at the southern end of the line.

Besides this accomplishment, Von Kluck has contributed to the safety of his own retreat if it becomes necessary. The main objective point of the allies north of the Oise is the important railroad junction at Tergnier, where connection is established between the rail communications of the central German army and Von Kluck's principal railway line of retirement. Von Kluck, apparently, has forced the allies further to the west of Tergnier and has thus increased the distance betweet his lines of comunication and the enemy. He has done this, too, at one of the narrowest stretches in the long lane that runs between the two armies toward Belgium.

Russia's operations in Galicia are still halted, waiting apparently on the perfection of plans for the next offensive after the investment of Cracow. The development of the Berlin campaign is the new objective, but its details must depend largely on the operations of the German army in Poland. Reports of engagements being sent from Petrograd are indicative of the extreme optimism which warfare seems to implant in the usually lethargic Slav. These descriptions of ferocious battles are too uniformly followed by important Russian successes. If they were true, the Germans should now be in full retreat, leaving the road to Berlin reasonably open. Instead of this however, the road to Cracow has not yet been freed.

The truth of these engagements is that they are no more than reconnaisances in force, whose principal objective is to feel out the strength of the enemy. They were duplicated in Belgium during the opening days of the German offensive, when retirements by German skirmishers probably with the information they had been sent to secure, were magnified into important successes for the allies.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

ENGLAND.—Despite the optimistic explanations of the military experts that the ground gained by the Germans on the left of the French battle line was of no importance, there is considerable apprehension felt in London that the Germans have gained what may prove to be a real advantage. The military experts, however, declare that the encircling movement continues with success.

FRANCE.—The allies are reported as battling desperately to regain the territory lost in the new offensive of the Germans. The general situation is reported as unchanged.

RUSSIA.—The losses of the Germans in the recent fighting is placed at 70,000. The general situation is described as satisfactory.

BELGIUM.—The bombardment of Antwerp continues with the war office insisting that the forts are still intact. It is understood that King Albert has definitely urged England and France to take definite steps to relieve both Brussels and Antwerp without any further delay.

GERMANY.—The official war office statement says that the German successes on both the right and left wings of the French battle line continue. The situation in the east is described as satisfactory.

RUSSIANS INSIST GERMANS ARE BACK OF THEIR BORDER

PETROGRAD, Oct. 6.—The Russian armies in pursuit of the Germans who have been driven from the Niemen river region are now threatening the Germans on their front and flank. The Germans are reported here to be occupying their fortified positions along the border inside of the East Prussian frontier. Russian forces, however, are moving to flank them from the south.

Estimates of the German casualties in the recent series of battles continues to grow. They are now placed at 70,000.

The Russian advance into Galicia and that of the cossack divisions into Hungary through the Carpathian mountain passes continues. The movement against Cracow is declared to be seriously interfered with by torrential rains and the destruction of all river bridges by the Austrians.

REPORTED VON MOLTKE HAS BEEN RELIEVED OF COMMAND OF GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Field Marshal von Moltke is today reported to have been relieved of his command, and superseded as chief of the German staff by Major General Voights-Rhetz. The report was sent by the Amsterdam correspondent of the Standard. It is generally accepted here as true, although there is no confirmation.

Von Moltke has never been a striking success, even at maneuvers, and it has been reported several times that his strong belief in Christian Science has been severely criticised by his fellow staff members. But the chief complaint, it is believed here, was that he refused to sanction certain spectacular campaign plans on which the kaiser had set his heart. General Voights-Rhetz is an absolutely unknown quantity.

INDICT ROSENBERG ON SLAVERY CHARGE

Grand Jury Returns Bill Against Man Who Transported His Wife—a Madame—to Superior

An indictment was returned this morning by the United States district court grand jury in the case of R. H. Rosenberg, charged with violating the Mann white slave act.

Rosenberg is charged with transporting his wife—keeper of a resort in Chicago—to Superior, for the purpose of opening a similar place there.

When "business" was in operation, government officials arrested Rosenberg and took his wife as a witness.

Federal authorities claim that the woman went to Superior with no other purpose than to live off the earnings of unfortunate women.

Rosenberg gave bonds of $5,000 and was released. His case will be heard at Madison during the December term of United States court.

TO ENTERTAIN YOUNG PEOPLE

The Young People's society of the Norwegian Lutheran church, Sixth and Division streets, will meet in the church parlors Tuesday evening and will be entertained by Mrs. Omer Johnson and the Misses Louise Halvorson and Matilda Gilbertson.

You can't decide an argument in a manner satisfactory to both sides, and there are other ways of wasting time.

WILLARD HAWKINS BITTEN BY DOG

Willard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hawkins, 426 North Eleventh street, was attacked and bitten yesterday evening shortly after 6 o'clock by a dog belonging to Mrs. Mary Nelson, 1119 Pine street. The calf of the boy's right limb was badly torn, necessitating cauterizing by Dr. J. L. Callahan.

The boy was riding a bicycle along Pine street near his home when the dog attacked him. The boy was dragged from the wheel by the animal and bruised considerably besides suffering a gaping wound in his leg.

The owners of the dog have consented to kill the animal.

PLAN SHAKE-UP IN POST OFFICES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — Plans for reorganization of postoffice staffs in a score of large cities, with resultant shake-ups in personnel, to relieve postmasters of all except executive functions and put experienced men in charge of the direct work of handling the mails, was announced today by the postmaster general, effective first at Cleveland.

The office of assistant postmaster may be abolished in some cities, as was recently done here. Many promotions and demotions are involved.

CHILDREN AID THE "CHRISTMAS SHIP"

Seven Little Girls Give "Peter Pan" and Realize $3.50 to Give Christmas Joy to Europe

UNCLE SAM PROMISES A SHIP

Presents of American Children to Those in War-worn Old World Will Go on Battleship

Additional cargo for the Christmas ship that will sail from Peaceful United States to war-stricken Europe to bring a little Christmas joy to the children there, was made possible Saturday night, when seven little girls gave a play, "Peter Pan," at the home of A. L. Goetzman, 207 West avenue south, for the benefit of the Christmas ship fund. Their audience was small, consisting mostly of parents and chums, but they realized $3.50 for the fund.

The seven little girls were Frances and Helen Goetzman, Eleanor Edwards, Betty Hixon, Gertrude Salzer, Helen Bunge and Dorothy Westby. They are the members of the "dramatic" department of the Harvest club, an organization of children of the neighborhood, pledged to do what they can for the Christmas ship. The other departments of the club are planning activities this fall to add their share to the Harvesters' contribution.

Uncle Sam Gives Ship

Uncle Sam has made a big contribution to the Christmas ship plan. Yesterday he announced through Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, that he would supply the ship. It will be a battleship, or perhaps the collier Jason. The date and place of sailing has not been decided.

Secretary Daniels sent the following word when he promised the ship:

Mr. Daniels' Word

"Washington, Oct. 5, 1914.—I take great pleasure in informing you that I have arranged to send an American warship, the vessel to be selected later, to European waters during the latter part of November, for the purpose of relieving the North Carolina; and I have further arranged for this ship to carry the Christmas cargo of useful presents which the ninety odd newspapers of this country, represented by you, have so thoughtfully collected from the generous people of our own country. It is a beautiful spirit which has prompted this portion of the press of the United States and the people who have responded to their appeal to lavish upon the distressed little ones of European countries this token of liberality. This unselfish enterprise, I feel confident, bespeaks our own gratitude to God for the peace which now prevails within our own boundaries, and at the same time breathes forth the universal prayer from the hearts of our countrymen that the distress of nations across the waters may soon be ended. Again assuring you of my delight that the navy is able in some measure to further your plans and purposes, believe me, cordially yours, Josephus Daniels, Secretary Navy."

of their own government, as against the stalwart Karel-Philipp idea of giving the power to the bosses."

Following the statement of Senator Otto Bosshard that the use of his name was out of the question, Mr. Kneen withdrew the LaCrosse man, and the contest narrowed down to Mr. Blaine, Dr. John Beffel and Christian Doerfler. The two latter withdrew in favor of Mr. Blaine after a canvass of two hundred letters and telegrams showed the Boscobel man to be the favorite.

The conference was marked by its enthusiasm, which was kept at high pitch by the constant flow of telegrams and telephone messages.

MEDILL M'CORMICK, LARGE OWNER IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, TELEPHONED THE CONFERENCE THAT WHILE HE COULD NOT COMMAND THEM THEY COULD REST ASSURED OF THE SUPPORT OF BOTH THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE AND THE CHICAGO HERALD.

Washington sent assurances of heavy guns from outside Wisconsin, including United States Senator Owen of Oklahoma. "There will be big speakers from both parties to help," said the message.

Col. Hicks, publisher of the Oshkosh Northwestern, the grand old war horse of Progressiveism, when told on the telephone that Mr. Blaine had consented to make the run, fairly shouted:

"Fine, fine! He's the man for the job!"

Jonh J. Blaine's name is known in every precinct in Wisconsin. Notably strong in the councils of the progressive republicans when he served as state senator during the constructive years that developed the "Wisconsin Idea," Blaine sprang to national fame as the man who introduced and pushed through the resolution to investigate the campaign expenses of Senator Isaac Stephenson. This resolution resulted in the charges being sustained in the state senate, and in the United States senate the following probe came within a few votes of costing the senator his seat.

Mr. Blaine will immediately organize for his campaign. A mass meeting will be held in Madison, and every county in the state will be organized. Progressive leaders will take part, and will meet at the state capital to draft a platform and perfect arrangements.

County headquarters will be opened in La Crosse within a week.

Grant County Man

Mr. Blaine was born May 4, 1875 on a farm in the town of Wingville, Grant county. He attended common school, and was graduated from Montford high school, Montford, Wis. He afterwards attended Northern Indiana university at Valparaiso, Indiana, and was graduated from the law department of that school June 3, 1896.

Practicing law in Montford for a year, he then moved to Boscobel, where he has since practiced law.

Mr. Blaine served as mayor of Boscobel for three terms and was a member of the county board of supervisors for Grant county four years. He was elected to the state senate in 1908, receiving 7,017 votes against 5,120 votes for R. A. Watkins, the democratic candidate.

The Voice of All

The nation is watching Wisconsin. If you surrender you deal a blow to the whole progressive movement. From every quarter will come support for an independent progressive for governor. This is a man's game. If you play it, we will help.—Telephone message from Medill McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, to non-partisan meeting that drafted Blaine.

STUDENTS PLAN TO BUILD BALCONY

Manual Training Department to Construct Improvement at High School

PUZZLE MAPS FOR GEOGRAPHY

Jig-saw Enigmas to Be Used in the Grades to Impress the Lessons

The manual training department of the La Crosse high school will build a balcony about the foundry room to be used in that department. The appropriation for lumber for that purpose was made at the board of education meeting last night. This was the first meeting of the board since July, as last month the day for the meeting fell on Labor day.

Puzzle Maps Ordered

Geography will be taught in the grades next year by means of jig-saw puzzle maps. Appropriations for the purchase of a number of such mape were made. It is believed that this method will give the pupils a more vivid acquaintance with the outline of the various countries, and therefore help their geography study greatly.

A report on the selling of school supplies to high school students was made. In the past it has been the custom of the board to furnish such supplies free, but when the budget was cut it was held advisable to sell the supplies for cost.

Last month $70 worth of supplies were sold.

O. K. Contracts

The contracts with new teachers were inspected and found satisfactory. The usual bills were allowed and other routine business attended to.

Superintendent Benezet submitted the budget for the coming year. The board, usually careful in its appropriations, this time thought that Mr. Benezet was too economical, and for this reason added a general fund of $1,000 to fall back on in case of a deficit in any department.

The Budget

The budget follows:

Y. M. C. A. CLAIMS RAPID ADVANCES

Y. M. C. A., La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 6.—(By Wireless from the Front.)—The forces of the Y. M. C. A. are in the thick of the fight. The infantry have made advances all along the line and are rapidly getting a foothold that means the ultimate victory for their division before Saturday night. Two hundred and fifty renewals is their goal and they have passed the one hundred and fifty mark in less than half the time alloted. The full strength of the regiment is now being thrown forward to the capture of the last hundred still outside of the camp.

Of the hundred new members to be captured there have been twenty-five brought into camp and the others are being besieged so that it is believed that they will surrender by the end of the week.

The full fighting strength of the infantry forces under Col. A. E. Barney will gather at a council of war to draw plans for a final charge in full force so as to assure a complete victory by Saturday night the end of the campaign.

The cavalry battalion under Major Fowler has been out scouting and one of the captains, C. H. Schweizer, has brought a number of the Business Men's club members into camp and Capt. R. M. I. Kinnear also made a successful raid. It is expected that these forces will round up their men within a day or two as they now have half of their number lined up under the colors. All along the line of battle they expect to have the way cleared for an advance in all lines of good endeavor for the year. While the campaign is always a strenuous effort, the outlook is hopeful. The forces this year are made up of fellows of the right material and so far none have shown the white feather. Volunteers are still in demand to augment the strength of both the cavalry and infantry.

"We put it over them there. Their airmen had been trying to set fire to our hospitals. They dropped bombs on one which set it afire from end to end. They thought they had burned our wounded. But they hadn't done anything of the kind. When they began we had taken our wounded from the regular field hospitals and had filled them with German wounded. And they burned sixty of their own men to death. It was a hell of a joke on them."

CASCARETS FOR COSTIVE BOWELS, SOUR STOMACH, COLD OR HEADACHE

That awful soreness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble, headache, bad cold and all such misery ends.

SPOTLIGHTS

"IN PANAMA"

Capacity houses greeted the Ollie Eaton Players at the La Crosse Theater Sunday in their new bill, "In Panama."

Original in conception, clever as to situations and abounding in comedy, this exceptional bill gave the Ollie Eaton Players an excellent opportunity to display their ability. The scenic features of the production are especially noteworthy. Mr. King, the scenic artist, has excelled himself in the splendid effects he has produced, the reproduction of the Panama Canal being the most striking.

Miss Eaton displayed her versatility to excellent advantage, her impersonation being the cleverest she has yet given. Howard Hall and Dave Henderson are a good pair to draw to, being responsible for the greatest share of the wholesome laughs. Jessie Stewart plays a difficult part in a most convincing manner and W. A. McDowell is most satisfactory as the crooked manager of the Panama properties. Richard Carhart as the irascible father again proved himself a character man of high degree.

"In Panama" will be played again Wednesday matinee and night. After the matinee Wednesday Miss Eaton will hold a reception on the stage.

"The House That Jack Built" will be the offering for the last half of the week beginning Thursday night.

No Doubt They Do.

Many modern literary critics no doubt follow the rule of Sidney Smith, who said he never read a book before reviewing it, as it prejudiced a man so.

Locomotor Ataxia

In a very interesting article on Locomotor Ataxia, Dr. Henry C. Story says that drugs have practically no beneficial effect in these cases. He says that rest should be insisted upon, and there should be no worries or troubles. Plenty of fresh air and moderate exercise must be insisted upon, but overexertion is injurious. The use of tobacco and alcohol should be strictly forbidden, and over-eating is dangerous, especially when the food is poorly masticated. The food must be of the most nourishing kind, and the quantity and variety must be changed so that the patient will not lose his appetite. The most annoying symptom in these cases is the pain which at times is almost unbearable. Dr. Story says that he finds two Anti-kamnia Tablets repeated in an hour if necessary, gives prompt relief and rest to the patient. These Tablets can be obtained at all druggists in any quantity desired. Ask for A-K Tablets.

Also unexcelled for headaches, neuralgia and all Pain.

Bad Complexions Peeled Off At Home

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my makeup saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virtues of ordinary mercolized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discolored scarf skin to flake off in minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed—likewise all fine lines, freckles, pimples, blotches, moth patches and other surface defects. A new complexion appears—a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy-hued skin such as no paint, powder or lotion can produce. Mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store in convenient size package, is applied like cold cream.

THREE DIE IN CRIMES

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 6.—Three are dead here today, two murdered and the third a suicide, following an epidemic of crime last night. John Rodgers, 33, of St. Paul, shot his wife, aged 25, on a Minneapolis street and then sent a bullet through his own brain because she would not live with him. Andrew Okeson, 30, believed to be insane, shot his brother, Nelson, 35.

FOR DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP--25 CENT DANDERINE

Girls! Girls! Save your hair! Make it grow luxuriant and beautiful.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you can not have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

JUNEAU MEN IN HARD WORKOUTS

Badgers Sent Through Stiff Drill for Marquette Game; Clayton to Return Soon

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6.—What Coach Bill Juneau has declared will be one of the stiffest weeks of practice for the varsity squad this season was started on Monday in preparation for the Marquette game here on Saturday.

The efforts of Coach Juneau and Assistant Keg Driver will be centered in developing a more efficient back field. Although the six men—Cummings, Welmar, Smith, Taylor, Kreuz and Clayton—who worked back of the line in Saturday's match, cannot be severely criticised for their efforts, it was evident that the back field is one of the weakest points on the team. Realizing this, Coach Jnueau set about yesterday to build up an effective offensive squad by installing more strict coaching methods.

The Badgers' strength this year will probably lie in its line. Although there were times in Saturday's contest when the forwards did not show any exceptional speed or strength, all are agreed that the first combination Juneau sent against Lawrence, with a little more coaching and the advantage of experience gained in the practice games, should develop a line which cannot be excelled throughout the conference. There is plenty of weight and strength in the Kennedy, center, Keeler and Schmidt, guards, McMaster and Buck, tackles, combination, but at times they did not pull together. Coach Wilson will turn his attention to building up a smoother working line.

Wisconsin will not lose the services of Hoy Clayton, star fullback, who was carried off the field after his first five minutes of play in the Lawrence game Saturday suffering from a dislocated elbow. The big fullback will be out of the game for only two weeks, it is thought. Weimar injured his right hand, but will be able to use it in about four or five days.

The week will see the men learning their first real football formations, plays with more or less snap and strategy, that should baffle the Catholic team on Saturday.

How To Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy that Will Do It Quickly. Cheap and Easily Made

If you have a bad cough or chest cold which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is greatly relieved in this way.

The above mixture makes a full pint—a family supply—of the finest cough syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Easily prepared in 5 minutes. Full directions with Pinex.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. Also quickly heals the inflamed membranes which accompany a painful cough, and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex,"—do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

REMOVING CLOTHING STAINS

By Miss Annabell Turner, Instructor in Home Economics University of Wisconsin Extension Division.

The easiest time to remove a stain on clothing is as soon as possible after the mishap has taken place.

If the nature of the stain is known and a solvent is at hand, removal will be a simple process. If a solvent cannot be found then something which will form a soluble substance must be sought. If this fails the last possibility is a bleaching agent, but this should be used only as a last resort as it will remove the color and may weaken the fabric if it is not used with great care.

When cleaning spots run a thread around them so as to be able to find them easily after the garment is wet. Always use some absorbent material under the spot so that the loosened dirt will not simply spread. Before using any cleaner try it first on the inside of a seam to see whether it will change the color.

Alcohol, ether, chloroform, carbona, gasoline and naptha soap and water are all good solvents for grease. Carbona is the commercial name for carbona tetrachloride. It is not inflammable, may be safely used around lights and fire, and works very successfully on the small spots so common on clothing.

Gasoline is the most practical reagent for use when the entire article needs cleaning. It must be used away from the fire to avoid any possibility of serious accidents. Cover the garment well with gasoline in a vessel that can be tightly covered, set vessel in a dish of hot water and let it stand several hours or over night. Especially soiled places may require a little rubbing. Rinse in clean gasoline and hang in the open air. The soiled gasoline should not be thrown away as the impurities will settle to the bottom and the clean gasoline may be poured from the top.

The best solvents for paint and varnish are turpentine, alcohol and ammonia.

"BLIND AND DEAF"
Deceiving the Doctor

An old lady recently called her trusted family physician to relieve a distressing cough. The physician is a conscientious man who doesn't go it blind. He insisted on examining her chest most thoroughly. The patient hindered the examination.

When one side of the chest was thoroughly gone over, she said there was no occasion to examine the other. With gentle but uncompromising persistence, the physician discovered a cancer of the breast so large that it extended through the chest wall. The cancer was the mechanical irritant which caused the cough by actually pressing upon the lung. It was then too far advanced to offer any hope of cure.

Of course the patient knew of this growth. In attempting to keep her physician from learning of it she was attempting to escape a truth by the primitive device of closing her eyes.

Deceiving Oneself

Nearly a year ago a physician was consulted by a patient about a small growth in her breast which was gradually growing larger. He advised immediate removal. He was very suspicious of an early cancer. She and her husband tried to dodge an unpleasant truth.

They went from one doctor to another. Fortunately, it so happened that none was so dishonest or stupid as to give what they were so anxious to pay for, viz: assurance that they might ignore the growth. Very recently they screwed up their courage to have the operation done. It wasn't so hard for them as they dreaded. But it was much harder for the surgeon.

It is to be hoped that all of the cancerous tissue was removed. The chances, however, are not one-tenth as favorable as they would have been a year ago.

"THE ELOPERS"

The latest musical comedy to bid for public favor is "The Elopers," which comes to the La Crosse theater tonight. For three months Chicago laughed at the witticisms and quips and enjoyed its pleasing and popular musical numbers. La Crosse is one of the first cities to be visited by this splendid company.

George E. Stoddard and Arthur Gillespie wrote the book. They are best remembered for their work on "The Royal Chef" and "The Isle of Spice." The music was composed by Hugo Frey and the lyrics from the pen of Frederick Herendeen, a University of Chicago student.

The experienced patron of musical comedy will find much of novelty in "The Elopers." It is said to be a bright, snappy, tuneful operetta with plenty of pretty girls, beautiful costumes and a splendid cast.

Czechowicz, according to Kasimir Zychlinski, president of the alliance, was indicted recently after it was discovered that he was between $7,000 and $9,000 short in his accounts.

BEER ON WATER WAGON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 6.—Indignant taxpayers are today loudly protesting the lending of city water wagons to a local brewery to haul beer now stored in vats. One citizen, a lawyer, suggested if they could not stop it through city officials they might get action under the pure food law which prohibits false labelling.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

CONFEREES REPORT BILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Presentation to the president for his signature of the Clayton anti-trust bill by Thursday or Friday was planned today by those democratic leaders, when the conference report, as agreed to, 35 to 24, by the senate late yesterday, was transferred from the senate to the house.

South African Fruit.

Fruit canning is developing famously in South Africa, which has many advantages, including cheap sugar and cheap native labor. As for the fruit, some parts of South Africa, at a considerable elevation, are said to be excellent for orchards. With development of ocean refrigerator service there should also be a growing market in the northern hemisphere for fruit from the antipodes when our fruit is out of season.

When Roughing It Is Enjoyable.

The average man enjoys roughing it for a while if there is some one to do the rough work.—Atchison Globe.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Wheat started tseady, turned higher on cabled reports of a firm feeling at Liverpool and then suffered a decline when several leading houses began selling. Noon found December ⅜c and May ⅞c under last night's closing figures. Heavy receipts northwest discouraged bull activities.

Corn was steady at the start and advanced a trifle. Liberal offers came out on the advance and prices broke to ⅜c under last night's close.

Oats futures already in good demand and higher at the start, but toward noon the market developed an easier tone, prices sliding steadily downward until they registered losses of ⅝c to ⅞c.

Provisions were sharply lower on account of a weak hog market.

Wheat had further slump in the afternoon, losing 1-2 to 3-4c. Corn futures lost 1-2c in the afternoon and oats went down a shade. Provisions closed at about noon prices.

Daily Thought.

Blessed are those who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all, the power of going out of one's self and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another.—Thomas Hughes.

Good Description of the Rockies.

As an evidence of the educating qualities of the popular post card, the Holton Recorder tells of an eight-year-old boy, while riding through the Black canyon in Colorado the other day, after gazing up from the dark gorge to the sunlit summits of the cliffs, who seriously remarked to his mother: "It looks just like a post card."—Kansas City Star.

About the Limit in Snobbery.

Might Have Been Either.

In a case tried in a Philadelphia court the prosecuting attorney had a good deal of fun at the expense of counsel for the defendant, each of whom seemed as stupid as the other. "Ignorance of the law," interposed the judge at a certain juncture, "is no excuse for violation of law." "May I inquire of your honor," asked the prosecuting attorney, "whether your honor's remarks are directed at the defendant or his counsel?"

Shops Had to Be Tagged.

"In the later Stuart times," says Macaulay, "the houses of London were not numbered, and there would, indeed, have been little advantage in numbering them, for of the coachmen, charmen, porters and errand boys of the city, a very small proportion could read. It was necessary to use marks which the most ignorant could understand. The shops were, therefore, distinguished by painted or sculptured signs, which gave a very gay and grotesque aspect to the streets.

Daily Thought.

I tell you—it may be for the hundredth time, but it is the very truth—that this is the working day; that this is the watching hour, and that our supreme duty is to work until the day is done and darkness falls upon the field; to watch until the hour is ended. —Raleigh.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
BY HAL SHERIDAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—With the Braves involved in another double header in Brooklyn and a double bill between the Giants and Phillies at the Polo grounds, the National season will close today. Tomorrow the American league will close up for the year and there will be nothing to distract attention from the impending tussle between the Athletics and Braves, but the alibis.

As the first tickets for the big series will be sold in Philadelphia tomorrow, the annual speculators story has appeared. A long line of boys are now on the job, waiting for the opening of the seat sales and reports from Philadelphia declare they openly state they are in the employ of New York speculators.

The most serious report from Boston is that Mayor Curley is to lead the Royal Rooters to Shibe park for the first games of the series. His Honor hopped merrily upon the field on one occasion in Boston and got himself mixed up in proceedings and was all but given a time at bat in the box score. He won't be mayor in Philadelphia, however, and possibly may be restrained.

Connie Mack eased over the intimation that Bush, Bressler and Shawkey are ready for world's series service if needed, by working them three innings each against the Yanks who were able to procure but two hits during the afternoon. Bush was not touched for a single safety. Bressler and Shawkey yielded one hit each, but they were not turned into runs.

With the Cardinals winding up their season yesterday and losing to the Cubs while the Giants were beating the Phillies, the New Yorkers were solidly installed in second place.

In the final settlement of affairs in the American league Washington broke the tie for third place with Detroit by defeating Boston.

BIRKLO PLACES IN NET FINALS

Moore Defeated in Straight Sets by Ex-Chicago University Tennis Crack

By defeating Moore in straight sets, 6 to 2 and 7 to 5, Birkle placed in the finals of the county tennis tournament. He will play Stickle for the championship of the county as soon as weather conditions permit.

Birklo took the first set in comparatively easy fashion, but in the second Moore gained an early lead and held it until he needed but another game to take the match. He had Birklo five games to three with the score forty love in his favor, but Birklo came back and took four games in a row, winning the set and the match.

The match was in many respects the best of the tourney. The service and the volleying of both players was excellent and the games generally close throughout. Birklo won by clever placing of volleys.

The finals to decide the county title will embrace the best three out of five sets.

Many people have the clownish habit of acknowledging the applause meant for others.

WHITE SHOWS BADLY

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Even ardent admirers of Charley White, local lightweight, expressed disappointment today at his showing in last night's mill with Stanley Yoakum of Denver, at Kenosha. White easily had the best of the fighting in each of the ten rounds but he boxed in desultory fashion and finding Yoakum too tough to knock out, sparred for the decision. The Denver lad made a sensational finish.

YALE FEARS LEHIGH

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 6.—Coach Hinkey today was prepared to put Yale's football warriors through a stiff workout. Next Saturday's game with Lehigh is expected to prove a tough one for Eli and Hinkey intends taking no chances. Lehigh's victories over Franklin and Marshall and Carlisle cause them to be regarded with fear.

SEAT SALE STARTS FRIDAY

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 6.—The public sale of tickets for the Athletic-Braves world's series will be opened Friday, the day of the first Philadelphia game, and preparattions are being made already to take care of the early birds. The baseball officials and the squad of police detailed to look out for them expect the crowd to start roosting in line tonight.

No one is too dull to formulate a scheme.

CUT loose from the big bulgy wad. For a clean, small chew there's nothing like "Right-Cut." It is the Real Tobacco Chew that you hear men boosting to their friends.

Pure, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough. You get the taste of the richest tobacco grown.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

HIGHS WORK VERY HARD

Several sessions of stiff scrimmage and signal practice are in line for the husky high school gridiron men in preparation for the Tomah game Saturday.

Coach Horne is not placing too much confidence in the strength of the team over the defeat of Lanesboro. Lanesboro averages more than twenty pounds lighter to the man.

The names of fourteen men who will probably play in the Tomah game will be sent to the Tomah authorities soon. They are Endres, Gibson, Kulcynski, Bruha, Kelly, Reget, Bott, Barney, Roellig, Fay, Zeisler, Feinberg, Blatter and Hackner.

CHANCE MAY JOIN FEDS

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—There is a probability that Frank Chance, peerless baseball leader, will be with the Federal league next season as an active manager and part owner of a ball club.

Chance left Chicago on Monday toward the west, continuing his automobile trip from New York to Los Angeles. He admitted that he had been figuring with the new third league people.

FEDERALS IN TIGHT FINISH

Indianapolis and Chicago Stage Close Race in Gilmore Circuit; Half a Game Separates

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 6.—"Somebody's got to drop a game, and it'll be Chicago," said "Whoa Bill" Phillips today, commenting on the tight finish in the Federal league, in which one-half a game separates Indianapolis and Chicago, with three games left for each to play. "They can't win four straight from Kansas City," continued the Hoofed manager.

Bill expressed the hope and opinion of every Indianapolis fan that the last year champs will repeat. Chicago, however, must lose a game out of three remaining with Kansas City to allow the Hoosiers a chance.

The hitfest of yesterday, in which the champions took one away from St. Louis 15 to 8, gave the locals unbounded confidence in the slugging Hoofeds, who must defeat St. Louis in the three remaining games here to win the pennant.

TIGER SCRUBS BEAT REGS

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 6.—Sweeping the veterans off their feet with their speed and proving a stone wall on the defensive the Tiger scrubs yesterday created havoc with the football situation. Several of the scrubs showed so brilliantly that the coaches are now planning on some changes in the varsity.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. Chas. A. Beyschlag, druggist, 503 Main St.
